VILLAGE STORM By Lunatics & Poets

In 'Village Storm', Lunatics & Poets explore the world of desire. Instinctive desires rooted in human beings, but also desires arising from society that influence us. In our search for individuality, we actually seem to become more alike. Inspired by the collection 'A Village Life' by Louise Glück and the theories of philosopher René Girard, Anna Jacobs and Hanna van der Meer present a cinematic portrait of the tension between animal instincts and human individuality, in sensitive and powerful dance language.

"Village Storm is the first part of our triptych on 'Desire'. Inspired by Louise Glück's A Village Life and René Girard's theories, it explores the tension between individuality and instinct. Set in a small, nature-bound community, intimate human moments unfold like a tango—framed by the looming force of natural disasters."

ABOUT LUNATICS & POETS

Makers Anna Jacobs and Hanna van der Meer met at the Rambert School of Ballet and Contemporary Dance in London, after studying at the Nationale Balletacademie and ArtEZ respectively. Both are additionally trained in fashion. As Lunatics and Poets, they connect different disciplines, from dance to film and installations.

"Image, sound and movement form a beautifully fused trinity that intrigues from the opening scene to the last second."
